

By Hardee:

To deploy a battalion as skirmishers, and to rally the battalion.

To deploy the battalion as skirmishers.

178. A battalion being in line of battle, if the commander should wish to deploy it on the right of the sixth company, holding the three right companies in reserve, he will signify his intention to the lieutenant colonel and the adjutant, and also to the major who will be directed to take charge of the reserve. He will point out to the lieutenant colonel the direction he wishes to give the line, as well as the point where he wishes the right of the sixth company to rest, and to the commander of the reserve the place he may wish it established.

179. The lieutenant colonel will move rapidly in front of the right of the sixth company, and the adjutant in front of the left of the same company. The commander of the reserve will dispose of it in the manner to be hereinafter indicated.

180. The colonel will command:

1. First (or second) platoons-as skirmishers.
2. On the right of the sixth company-take intervals.
3. MARCH. (or double quick-MARCH.)

181. At the second command, the captains of the fifth and sixth companies will prepare to deploy the first platoons of their respective companies, the sixth on its right, the fifth on its left file.

182. The captain of the fourth company will face it to the right, and the captains of the seventh and eighth companies will face the respective companies to the left.

183. At the command march, the movement will commence. The platoons of the fourth and sixth companies will deploy forward; the right guide will march on the point which will be indicated to him by the lieutenant colonel

184. The company which has faced to the right, and also the companies which have faced to the left, will march straight forward. The fourth company will take an interval of one hundred paces counting from the left of the fifth, and its chief will deploy its first platoon on its left file. The seventh and eighth companies will each take an interval of one hundred paces, counting from the first file of the company, which is immediately on its right; and the chiefs of these companies will afterwards deploy their first platoons on the right file.

185. The guides who conduct the files on which the deployment is made, should be careful to direct themselves towards the outer man of the neighboring company, already deployed as skirmishers; or if the company has not finished its deployment, they will judge carefully the distance which may still be required to place all these files in line, and will march on the point thus marked out. The companies, as they arrive on the line, will align themselves on those already deployed.

186. The lieutenant colonel and adjutant will follow the deployment, the one on the right, the other on the left; the movement concluded, they will place themselves near the colonel.

187. The reserves of the companies will be established in echelon in the following manner; the reserve of the sixth company will be placed one hundred and fifty paces in the rear of the right of this company; the reserves of the fourth and fifth companies, united, opposite the centre of their line of skirmishers, and thirty paces in advance of the reserve of the sixth company; the reserves of the seventh and eighth companies, also united, opposite the centre of their line of skirmishers, and thirty paces further to the rear than the reserve of the sixth company.

188. The major commanding the companies comprising the reserve, on receiving an order from the colonel to that effect, will march these companies thirty paces to the rear, and will then ploy them into column by company, at half distance; after which, he will conduct the column to the point which shall have been indicated to him.

189. The colonel will have a general superintendence of the movement; and when it is finished, will move to a point in rear of the line, where his view may best embrace all the parts, in order to direct their movements.

190. If, instead of deploying forward, it be desired to deploy by the flank, the sixth and fifth companies will be moved to the front ten or twelve paces, halted, and deployed by the flank, the one on the right, the other on the left file, by the means already indicated. Each of the other companies will be marched by the flank, and as soon as the last file of the company, next towards the direction, shall have taken its interval, it will be moved upon the line established by the fifth and sixth companies, halted, and deployed.

191. In the preceding example, it has been supposed that the battalion has been in the order of battle, but if in column, it would be deployed as skirmishers by the same commands and according to the same principles.

192. If the deployment is to be made forward, the directing company, as soon as it is unmasked, will be moved ten or twelve paces in front of the head of the column, and will be then deployed on the file indicated. Each of the other companies will take its interval to the right of left, and deploy as soon as soon as it is taken.

193. If the deployment is to be made by the flank, the directing company will be moved in the same manner to the front, as soon as it is unmasked, and will then be halted and deployed by the flank on the file indicated. Each of the other companies will be marched by the flank, and when its interval is taken, will be moved on the line, halted, and deployed as soon as the company next towards the direction shall have finished its deployment.

194. It has been prescribed to place the reserves in echelon, in order that they may, in the event of a rally, be able to protect themselves without injuring each other; and the reserves of the two contiguous companies have been united, in order to decrease the number of the echellons, and to increase their capacity for resisting cavalry.

195. The echellons, in the example given, descend from right to left, but they may, on an indication from the colonel to that effect, be posted on the same principle, so as to descend from left to right.

196. When the color-company is to be deployed as skirmishers, the color, without its guard, will be detached, and will remain with the battalion reserve.

The rally.

197. The colonel may cause all the various movements prescribed for a company, to be executed by the battalion, and by the same commands and the same signals. When he wishes to rally the battalion, he will cause the rally on the battalion to be sounded, and will so dispose his reserve to protect this movement.

198. The companies deployed as skirmishers will be rallied in squares on their respective reserves; each reserve of two contiguous companies will form the first front of the square, throwing to the rear the sections on the flanks; the skirmishers who arrive first will complete the lateral fronts, and the last the fourth front. The officers and sergeants will superintend the rally, and as fast as the men arrive, they will form them into two ranks, without regard to height, and cause them to face outwards,

199. The rally being effected, the commanders of the squares will profit by any interval of time the cavalry may allow for putting them in safety, either by marching upon the battalion reserve, or by seizing an advantageous position; to this end, each of the squares will be formed into column, and march in this order; and if threatened anew, it will halt, and again form itself into square.

200. As the companies successively arrive near the battalion-reserve, each will re-form as promptly as possible, and without regard to designation or number, take place in the column next in rear of the companies already in it.

201. The battalion reserve will also form square, if itself threatened by cavalry. In this case, the companies in marching towards it will place themselves promptly in the sectors without fire, and thus march on the squares.

Recommendations for three companies:

1. Deploy first and second companies as skirmishers and have third company as company in reserve.
2. Deploy all three companies as skirmishers and have no companies in reserve.

To deploy a battalion as skirmishers, and to rally the battalion.

To deploy the battalion as skirmishers.

178. To form from a four company battalion, with the fourth company in reserve, forming on the right of second company. Battalion commander (CO) informs intention to Adjutant (Adj.) and Field Officer (FO) and fourth company captain. (CO:“All right you guys we are going to deploy the battalion forward as skrimishers. Matt, Andrew, get ready to deploy forward. Sean, I want your company in reserve.”) CO points out direction of line and center of line to FO. (CO:“Andrew, make the line rest along sutler row, with the center at that funnel cake stand. Sean, move your company behind the Ball Gown Emporium there”)

 Battalion Commander	 First Sergeant
 Field Officer	 Second Sergeant
 Adjutant	 Third Sergeant
 Captain	 Fourth Sergeant
 1st Lt
 2nd Lt

179. The FO will move rapidly in front of the right of the second company, and the Adj in front of the left of the same company. Fourth company captain will prepare it to ploy and move.

180. The CO will command:

1. Second platoons-as skirmishers.

First, second, and third company captains will caution their men to prepare to deploy.

2. On the right of the second company-take intervals.

181. At the second command, the captains of second and first companies will prepare to deploy the second platoons of their respective companies, the second on its right, the first on its left file.

First company captain orders:

1. First company, second platoon-as skirmishers

2. On the left file - take intervals.

Second company captain orders:

1. Second company, second platoon-as skirmishers

2. On the right file - take intervals.

182. The captain of the third company will face it to the left.

Third company captain orders:

1. Third company

2. Left FACE.

The captain of the fourth company will order: [NB: This is out of number sequence, see 188, but logically should occur here]

Fourth company captain orders

1. Fourth company

2. To the rear.

The CO will command:

3. MARCH. (or double quick-MARCH.)

Company captains repeat:

3. MARCH. (or double quick-MARCH.)

184. The third company, which has faced to the left, will march by the flank. The third company will take an interval of one hundred paces, minus the length of the second company (70 paces should approximate) and then deploy their second platoon on the right file.

Third company captain orders:

1. Third company
2. HALT. FRONT.
3. Third company, second platoon-as skirmishers
4. On the right file - take intervals.
5. MARCH.

185. Company right and left guides (first and second sergeants) need to pay attention to the points where the companies will meet. This means to move to that boundary line quickly based on the existing deployment or a judgment of where that line should be. The companies, as they arrive on the line, will align themselves on those already deployed.

186. The FO and Adj will follow the deployment, the one on the right, the other on the left until the deployment is finished, then they will place themselves near the CO.

187. The first platoons of the first, second, and third companies will form in echelon in the following manner; the reserves of the first and second companies, united, 150 paces in the rear, opposite the centre of their line of The reserve of the third company 180 paces in the rear of the right of third company.

188. The captain of fourth, on receiving an order from the colonel to that effect (CO: “Sean, get your ass out of here” I have included this as part of 182), will march the fourth companies thirty paces to the rear, and will then ploy them into column by company (maybe column of platoons), at half distance; after which, he will conduct the column to the point which shall have been indicated to him (the Ball Gown Emporium).

Fourth company captain orders:

4. HALT.

5. About. FACE.

Ployments or deployment may follow.

189. The colonel will make sure no one screws up; and when it is finished, will move to a point in rear of the line, where he can see everything.

190. If, instead of deploying forward, it be desired to deploy by the flank, the second and first companies will be moved to the front ten or twelve paces, halted, and deployed by the flank, the first company on the right, the second company on the left file, by the means already indicated. The third company will be marched by the left flank, and as soon as the last file of the company, next towards the direction, shall have taken its interval, it will be moved upon the line established by the fifth and sixth companies, halted, and deployed.

191. In the preceding example, it has been supposed that the battalion has been in the order of battle, but if in column, it would be deployed as skirmishers by the same commands and according to the same principles.

192. If the deployment is to be made forward it is either a forward into line or deploy forward on the # company and each company deploys skirmishers as unmasked.

193. If the deployment is to be made by the flank, the directing company will be moved in the same manner to the front, as soon as it is unmasked, and will then be halted and deployed by the flank on the file indicated. Each of the other companies will be marched by the flank, and when its interval is taken, will be moved on the line, halted, and deployed as soon as the company next towards the direction shall have finished its deployment.

194. It has been prescribed to place the reserves in echellon, in order that they may, in the event of a rally, be able to protect themselves without injuring each other; and the reserves of the two contiguous companies have been united, in order to decrease the number of the echellons, and to increase their capacity for resisting cavalry.

196. When the color-company is to be deployed as skirmishers, the color, without its guard, will be detached, and will remain with the battalion reserve. NB: I strongly recommend the whole guard retires with the companies in reserve (as depicted in the drawings) or, if no reserve companies, stays with the reserves en echelon.

The whole thing deploys on HALT.

The rally.

197. The colonel may cause all the various movements prescribed for a company, to be executed by the battalion, and by the same commands and the same signals. When he wishes to rally the battalion, he will cause the rally on the battalion to be sounded, and will so dispose his reserve to protect this movement.

198. The companies deployed as skirmishers will be rallied in squares on their respective reserves; each reserve of two contiguous companies will form the first front of the square, throwing to the rear the sections on the flanks; the skirmishers who arrive first will complete the lateral fronts, and the last the fourth front. The officers and sergeants will superintend the rally, and as fast as the men arrive, they will form them into two ranks, without regard to height, and cause them to face outwards,

199. The rally being effected, the commanders of the squares will profit by any interval of time the cavalry may allow for putting them in safety, either by marching upon the battalion reserve, or by seizing an advantageous position; to this end, each of the squares will be formed into column, and march in this order; and if threatened anew, it will halt, and again form itself into square.

200. As the companies successively arrive near the battalion-reserve, each will re-form as promptly as possible, and without regard to designation or number, take place in the column next in rear of the companies already in it.

201. The battalion reserve will also form square, if itself threatened by cavalry. In this case, the companies in marching towards it will place themselves promptly in the sectors without fire, and thus march on the squares.
